SESSION HIGHLIGHTS

Water Rates & Rate Structures: This course will focus on rate structure, how to figure base rates and usage rates, information needed to make informed rate calculating decisions and positive and negative effects of water conservation programs. Learn when and what time of year to start your conservation program and how to judge the potential financial and political effects of implementing a water conservation program.

Water Shortage Management Plans & Emergency Response Plans: Find out how to prepare your system now for potential future water shortages. Learn the key points that should be included in your Emergency Response Plan (ERP), and use this hands-on class to create or update your ERP. Get a free manual with templates for forms that all water systems need in case of an emergency situation.

INSTRUCTOR:

Dan DeMoss currently holds the position of CRWA Executive Director. Dan has been in the water/wastewater industry since 1985, starting as a small town operator and working up to the public works foreman position. He started in the technical assistance and training field in 1990. Dan has been in contract operations as a plant operator and system manager, water industry sales and service, and has extensive experience in the underground utility contracting field. He holds certifications in water treatment, distribution, wastewater treatment, and collections.
